A NEWSLETTER FOR OUR CHURCH FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Words from the Pastor

“Remember this: Whoever sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and whoever sows generously will also reap generously. Each of you should give what you have decided in your heart to give, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver. And God is able to bless you abundantly, so that in all things at all times, having all that you need, you will abound in every good work. As it is written: ‘They have freely scattered their gifts to the poor; their righteousness endures forever.’”

2 Corinthians 9:6-9

This month, we continue our Stewardship Campaign; and, as such, I want us to take some time to think about “stewardship” and what it means. What do you think of when you hear the word “stewardship” mentioned in church? If you are like most people, you probably associate “stewardship” with “tithing,” so you think about money and finances; and, certainly, finances do play an important part of stewardship.

However, even though our Stewardship Campaign is largely focused on the pledging of monetary donations for the upcoming year, the word “stewardship” entails so much more than money. The Greek word that is used in the New Testament that has been transliterated as “steward” is “oikonomos.” This word means “the manager of a house or household affairs.” Basically an “oikonomos” did not own the house with which they were charged to oversee. Rather, they were tasked with managing someone else’s house, from cleaning, to managing finances, to overseeing servants.

The question then becomes, what does any of this have to do with the Christian life? Why does the New Testament compare Christians with these 1st Century stewards? It makes this comparison because we are not our own, everything we have, our church, our home, our money, even our life itself, is on loan from God who has entrusted us to manage these assets for His glory.

So, when we talk about “stewardship” from a Biblical perspective, we are not simply talking about finances; nor are we making a direct connection with tithing, though tithing is an important part of stewardship. Rather, what we are talking about is utilizing all that God has blessed you with for His glory and for the good of others; this includes your money, your talents, your wisdom, your experience, your life. Stewardship means, rather than being stingy or hoarding God’s gifts, we utilize all of them properly for the advancement of His kingdom, as we have spent plenty of time talking about in our current sermon series.

And, honestly, that is exactly where and how our Stewardship Campaign fits into God’s overall calling to be good stewards of all of our gifts. This church, the wonderful, historic, Church of the 49ers, is not our church, it is God’s church. God has given us this church as a place where we can worship Him and become equipped to minister to those in this community who are lost. Since this is God’s church, and since God has created and called His church to be a witness and minister to Him, it is our job, as stewards of His church, to make sure that we are managing it in such a way that it accomplishes the mission its rightful Owner and Master has given it.

And how do we do that? We do it by giving of all that God has blessed us with; by utilizing our time, our talents, our wisdom and experience, and, yes, our finances, to accomplish the mission that God has given to us as His church. Our church cannot effectively minister to either our covenant partners or to the community around us without the support of people like each one of you. It is only through your financial donations, your volunteering of your time and talents, your wisdom, experience, and ideas that we, the Church of the 49ers, can truly be a beacon of light in a cold, dark world for so many people.

From the Pastor

God calls us to abound in every good work, to freely scatter our gifts to the poor, and we need you to fulfill this calling.

But, as you also know from our current sermon series, this giving shouldn't be done begrudgingly or only out of a sense of obligation; it should be done joyfully and with thanksgiving in our hearts knowing that God has promised if we sow generously, we will reap generously.

Since God has promised us that, if we generously give of our resources, we will reap the rewards of that generosity, shouldn't that make us all the more eager and excited to give to Him a portion of anything and everything that we have? I submit to you that it should. The rewards for giving generously of your gifts and talents are both rewards in the here and now and rewards in eternity with Him.

My hope for the Church of the 49ers in 2024, and beyond, is that we will become an ever-increasing presence in Tuolumne and Calaveras County, and that our witness and ministry will reach more and more lives so desperately in need of Jesus Christ. That we can, with confidence, say that we are doing everything in our power to minister to the lost, make disciples, shepherd believers, and be a force for good and a witness to Jesus Christ in all that we do.

I truly believe with all of my heart that we have the right people to accomplish this; we have caring, loving people who truly desire to see the lost in our community come to know Jesus as their Lord and Savior. We, brothers and sisters of the Church of the 49ers, are the right people for this mission and ministry; and it is my job, and the job of our Session, to ensure that all of us are fully utilizing the gifts that God has given us to accomplish it. Stewardship is all of us working together to make sure that God's church in Columbia, California is accomplishing His mission in this community and in the world.

May the blessings of the Father and the peace of the Son be with you,

Pastor Keith

Women's Bible Study

Judy Nason will resume leading her Women's Bible Study after the first of the year. Once this weekly study begins, it will include discussion of the remaining books of the Pentateuch: Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Tuesday Night Youth Activities

Tuesday night Bible Study is going well with the youth. They look forward to our games and activities each week. We have one more Bible Escape Room left to do, then we will move on to something new. If you are interested in your child participating in Tuesday night youth activities, you can drop in anytime. We are also in need of another childcare worker. Please reach out to me if you would like to help on Tuesdays; we meet from 5:45 pm to 7:30.

Stewardship Presentation

In October, Suzanne, the Chair of Christian Education, and I (Karla), the Director of Children's Ministries, gave a presentation to the congregation during Sunday morning service about what we have going on in the children's ministry. We spoke a little about how we use our finances to put together this program. This includes the materials needed, such as toner and paper to print the lessons for the teachers, classroom supplies for cleaning and organization, and craft supplies. I spoke on what my weekly job duties look like in preparation for Sunday and Tuesday, as well as any other events we are doing. At the end, we advised our teacher needs in order to comply with insurance regulations and to make this program a success!

Teacher Needs

We have a great volunteer staff, some who have been with us since the beginning, several years ago. However, with increasing numbers of children, we need a few more regular volunteers.

We operate on a set rotating schedule that allows our teachers to make only a once a month commitment.

- ◆ Areas of need include one regular volunteer for Tuesday nights, this person will work alongside our childcare worker, Charlee.
- ◆ Some months have an extra Sunday in them, a 5th Sunday. We could use one person who is willing to help in our older, school-aged room, CE2, on those random 5th Sundays.
- ◆ CE2 also needs two regular teachers on the 4th Sunday of each month.
- ◆ Specific dates we are looking to fill:
 - Rm CE2 November 19
 - Rm CE1 November 26
 - Rm CE2 December 31

Sign Up for Church Directory Pictures

Typically congregations like to have a pictorial directory created every three years, but the pandemic set us back some. Pictorial directories make it easier for us to connect names with faces to help us get to know each other.

In 2011, as a rookie photographer with assistance from Fred White, I took portraits of our parishioners and designed a directory. Many liked their portraits enough to purchase prints, providing enough profit to pay for printing of the directories in full color.

In 2014 Lifetouch, a professional photography company formerly known as Olan Mills, took our portraits, sold prints to us, and printed directories many months later — after I had to deal with their user-unfriendly software to prepare the book for print. In 2018 we tried a different tack, inserting only candid pictures into the directory—but then we had to scramble to pay the printing bill for the directories.

I am finally now tackling this project again, have set up a portrait studio with background and lights in Room 3 of the Christian Ed building, and have already taken portraits of 15 in our congregation.

There is no charge to take your picture (family members and your dog are welcome too), and each will receive a free directory once they are published, hopefully in January. If you would like to order prints, they will be available for purchase at a very reasonable price.

There is a table set up in Faith Hall during fellowship time—where you can choose a day and time for your portrait. Most Sundays I am able to take pictures of a few of you, before and after worship. However, if you can make it to the church on a weekday for a 10-15 minute appointment, that is preferable.

It would help me if someone can volunteer to sit at the sign-up table for a half hour on Sundays after worship to encourage people to make their portrait reservations.

Allen Graham, Missionary

Hello Church of the 49ers family. Thanks so much for your prayers last month. Let's praise God together for how He answered!

The presidential runoff election in Ecuador was very peaceful and without incident. Daniel Noboa is the president-elect. There are many significant challenges that he faces. Please pray for him, his cabinet, and a spirit of cooperation in the primarily opposition-run congress.

The paperwork for the purchase of our new ministry home was completed on October 18. Praise God! Pray now as we start planning for the needed renovations, especially for the broadcast studios.

My trip to the Ivory Coast went very well. There were 11 participants from five countries for the five-day training-of-trainers course. It is now their responsibility to take up the baton for media training in their respective countries and in the region. The two days of workshops at the AbR (Africa by Radio) Media Conference also went well. There were almost 80 attendees from more than 25 nations. Pray that each participant will be able to put into practice what he or she learned.

Back at home, HCJB2 celebrated its 51st anniversary on November 1. We had a fun day honoring God for His provision year after year for the ministry. Many listeners stopped by the station along with a number of radio personalities from other stations in Guayaquil who have at one time or another been impacted by our ministry.

Please pray for our station's annual sharathon (on-air fundraiser) in mid-November. Donations have dropped off somewhat, so we are hoping that a renewed commitment to the station will come out of the event.

At the end of the month, two of my colleagues and I will go to the city of Loja in southern Ecuador to help the team at OE Radio with their sharathon. The concept is still relatively new for them, so they have requested help from us. You may remember that another colleague and I did some fundraising workshops with them at the end of June. Praise God for how He has used that training to allow the team there to cultivate local donors and advertisers.

Allen with friends on the Ivory Coast.

Allen with colleagues from Guayaquil's No. 1 station. The man in the green shirt came to Christ through the ministry of HCJB2. Praise God!

I hope you will rejoice with me in the answered prayers and continue to pray for what lies ahead in November. To God be the glory!

Allen

Interfaith News

Interfaith is always in need of donations of sheets and blankets and towels (especially the larger sizes) to give out to its clients. None of these items has to be new, just clean with no holes or tears. Toiletries are needed also.

Another repeat request is for volunteers. Even if you can give us one or two days a month, it would be very helpful—as well as someone who could substitute. Give me a call at 209-532-4358. I can tell you what it entails, or see me at church on Sundays.

Nancy's Hope Food Pantry

The food pantry is hosted by the Church of the 49ers and operated by Nancy's Hope with volunteers. It is located in the lower level of the Christian Education building and open to the public Tuesdays and Thursdays 10 am to 2 pm, excluding holidays.

Donations of food and seasonal clothing are accepted, as well as toiletries—however they need to be brought on Sunday or on Thursdays between 10 am and 2 pm. Do not drop off any donations after hours, and please, no expired products or damaged clothing.

The Smith Saga

The Church of the 49ers has only a few records in our archives about the influential pioneers in Old Tuolumne before the Gold Rush days. Some of the earliest inhabitants in Columbia, Sonora and adjacent communities have disclosed information about the settlements in the virgin foothills of central California in their letters, diaries, trip journals and even a few personal activities. Dale Morgan's scholarly biography of Jedediah Smith does include important information not always available by others about California's Mother Lode. Several historians have examined the available primary source records to more thoroughly provide written details about area pioneers and the Church of the 49ers.

Jedediah Strong Smith was among the mountain men who set his moccasins on Old Tuolumne in the late 1820s; he was twenty-four years old and a Bible toting and quoting "man of many gifts." He trapped and explored in the historic Mother Lode foothills for several weeks; almost daily he recorded his activities in a journal. He has been considered by some historians as "the most devout man" in the mountains. He took his religion "into the wilderness and let nothing corrode it."

In his informative journal and family letters, Smith reminisced, "...God only knows, I feel the need of the watch and care of a Christian Church...men of good morals seldom enter into this business...I hope you will remember me before [His] Throne of Grace...that I might be able to help those who stand in need. Pray for me, My Brother..., as I face every danger...."

Jedediah Strong Smith

In recent years, this intrepid pioneer has been honored during annual "rendezvous" at the Jedediah Smith Society conferences on the campus of the University of the Pacific in Stockton. In the Smith journal, we note he described the "Appelaminy River" (Stanislaus River) as flowing head-long into the valley from "Mount Joseph" (Sierra Nevada mountains) and he provided details of hardships while in the Mother Lode highlands.

In 1936 at the rustic Tuolumne County Museum, regional historians dedicated a granite monolith in honor of Jedediah Smith and the accompanying men who crossed the majestic Sierra in May 1827. This harrowing journey lasted eight days as they struggled in the rugged snow-covered mountains. The monument with its informative plaque is about two by five feet and rests on a substantial pedestal. This historic expedition is considered the first crossing through Old Tuolumne by the American mountain men.

I believe the words of historian Morgan provide an appropriate farewell to Jedediah Strong Smith: "...yet was he moest, nover obrusive, charitable, without guile...a man whom none could approach without respect, or know without esteem....he must not be forgotten."

Dick Dyer, Historian

I Don't Stand Alone

I don't stand Alone
Amidst The waves
In the heaviest of Storms.
I don't stand Alone
As the ship Sways
And the Waves Rock
The boat
Side to side.
I don't stand Alone
As the news
Echoes News of wars
And rumors Of wars.
I don't stand Alone
As Those who
Tell me not
To judge
Are the ones
Casting stones.
I don't stand Alone
As words of Praise
Form on My lips
Because even
In life's Storms
He is worthy
Of our praise
And I'll Sing
Them Even
until
The end Of days.

BOOK REVIEW

By Denella Kimura

The Daniel Dilemma: How to Stand Firm and Love Well in a Culture of Compromise

By Chris Hodges

“The Daniel Dilemma” by Chris Hodges is not a Bible study on Daniel. Hodges calls it a field guide for living in the last days, “while multiple generations have experienced various signs, no one generation has experienced them all at the same time . . . Until now.”

Hodges’ book is a look at how the principles Daniel lived by can help us face cultural challenges in a world that is progressively chaotic.

Hodges calls on Biblical characters who have gone through challenging times like Daniel, Job, Joseph, Paul and Jesus, to show us how to handle evil events with the spirit of peace, love and joy, to control our reactions, and to trust in Jesus.

God is in control of all things. He is not the author of evil—Satan is. But Jesus takes us through the mania that we see on the news and opens our eyes to the truth that God loves everyone.

Hughes says, “Our world views require truth, and if we haven’t based them on God’s word, the ultimate truth, then our world views rely on the false and negative contributions of the world.”

Hodges affirms that our core convictions are not based on what feels good or seems right at the moment, but on the foundation of our faith in Christ and the word of God.

He addresses the values we live by in six areas that help us live in a culture gone mad.

- ◆ Worship (Col. 1:15-19) is where we embrace God’s attributes by “surrendering yourself to the power, majesty, and goodness of your creator, letting God be God—even when we don’t understand what God is doing.” (Rom. 12:1)
- ◆ God’s Word (II Tim. 3:16-17) addresses our worth and value system so that we may be “thoroughly equipped for every good work.” Hodges urges us to “rely solely on the truth, avoiding gossip, hearsay, and the opinions of others.”
- ◆ Holiness (I Thes. 4:2-5) means living a pure life, reflecting who God is and what He’s about.”
- ◆ Family (Eph. 6:2-4) speaks to the twisting cultural values that attack God’s best design for relationships.
- ◆ Life (Jer. 1:4-5) Hodges affirms, “Life is precious and only God has the right to control when we live and when we die—not human beings.”
- ◆ Humility (James 4:6) reflects an attitude of service, compassion and strength. Hughes says that our twisted culture is Satan’s “smokescreen for obscuring truth and confusing God’s people.”

Hodges expands through “The Daniel Dilemma” how we can grow in our spiritual lives. And if that takes us through painful circumstances, we may experience spiritual growing pains.

“We want God to change our circumstances, but God wants to change us,” says Hodges. Taking up our cross and following Jesus, or like Paul’s aspiration to “crucify self,” (Gal. 2:20) are Biblical challenges for us to have more of Christ and less of self. It means not giving in to what the “flesh” [self] wants and desiring more of God’s best for our lives.

The world may think we’re old-fashioned, but we know that God’s truth is the source for true liberation and authentic freedom,” says Hodges. “They give us full, abundant life. They give us peace, joy, purpose and fulfillment.”

Daniel’s dilemma was to resist the idol-toxic culture of the Babylonians and to honor God in all of his life. His faithful prayers eventually landed him in the lion’s den, but God’s angel shut down the lions’ voracious appetites, sharp claws and toothsome maws.

So it’s time we shut off the TV and get some sleep, and celebrate our victories tomorrow.
